

Are you ready for Australia's biggest festival of construction of the year?

Sydney Build, Australia's leading and largest construction show, is set to return on 1st - 2nd May at ICC Sydney, with the official support of NSW Premier Chris Minns and Lord Mayor Clover Moore. Join us for an unmissable two days of incredible content, entertainment and networking opportunities, including the largest networking party for Women in Construction.

Sydney Build features over 500 exhibitors, 500 high-level speakers across 15 conference stages and CPD-accredited workshops. Spanning six exhibition halls at the ICC Sydney, the show is co-hosted with Digital Construction Australia, Australia HVACR Expo and the International Construction Expo, attracting over 20,000 visitors from leading contractors, architects, engineers, developers and construction professionals.

Here are just eight reasons why you can't afford to miss out on Sydney Build 2024:

More entertainment and networking parties than ever before

The Australia's biggest Festival of Construction will feature even more networking parties, entertainment and interactive experiences than ever before. The Sydney Build Built Environment Networking Hub agenda is jam-packed with exclusive networking parties co-hosted by leading industry bodies including Infrastructure NSW, Master Builders Australia, CIOB, NAWIC, prefabAUS and more. Attendees can look forward to networking events including speed networking, boat party, and Australia's largest annual networking events dedicated to women, diversity, sustainability and mental health in the construction industry. These networking events provide a platform to expand your professional network and connect with like-minded individuals.

Prepare for a thrilling experience filled with entertainment, surprises, and incredible giveaways. From live music performances and talented buskers to exclusive surprises, this event promises to make your trip truly unforgettable. Prepare to be delighted at every turn, and take a moment to unwind and enjoy a refreshing drink at the Sydney Build Bar. Let the beats of our DJ move you as you groove to the rhythm. If you're up for interactive fun, be sure not to miss out on our indoor golf, push-up challenge, and other exciting activities!
